The Assassin Escapes.
For the first time in half a year, our city is, last evening, about six o'clock, disgractive with a murder, as cruel as it was, to all pearances, unprovoked. The particulars, we have ascertained them, are as follows: About the hour mentioned the victim, Herau Alimore Smith, who resided on the exandria pike, near its junction with Mornuth street, Newport, left a saloon near the mer of Fifth and Main streets, for the purse of going home. Passing east on Fifth ext, and when near the corner of Sysamore, met, according to the statements of the rest, and when near the corner of Sycamore, and, according to the statements of the sys who witnessed the terrible occurrence, a rge, powerfully built men, who had just trued the corner frem Sycamore street. patches of Duke of Wellington and President Johnson. LONDON, Tuesday, December 24. LONDON, Tuesday, December 24.

At a banquet given at the Royal Polyrechnic, on Saturday night last, in reply to the following sentiment from the Duke of Wellington, a felicitious telegram from the President of the United States was read amidst great enthusiasm. Not a little of the interest attaching to these dispatches grows out of the rapid transmission of a message of the Duke of Wellington to the President of the United States:

To the Duke of Wellington:

The directors and scientific guests now at the Royal Polytechnic, London, England, send their most respectful greeting to the President of the United States, their apology being that to the discoveries of science the intercourse between two great nations is indebted.

The above message was nine minutes and thirty seconds in transit from London to Washingtom.

Court, New York, alimony of $100,000, which she claims to have been unpaid for a number of years.

—It is reported that the President will remove General Pope from the command of the Fourth Military District, and assign General Meade to the position.

—Since the recent rise in the Ohio, 2,476,000 bushels of coal have been shipped from. Pittsburg for points down the river.

WASHINGTON, December, 21.

To the Duke of Wellington, London:

I reciprocate the friendly salutations of the banqueting party at the Royal Polytechnic, and cordially agree with them in the sentiment that free and quick communication between governments and nations is an important agent in preserving peace and good unders and first the interests of civilization.

The Paris correspondent of the Boston Herald thus writes: "Among the great attractions on exhibition at the Paris Exposition is the Perises," or Pratt & Wentworth's cooking stove. It is called a stove because it is one, not because it locks to French eyesight his one, not because it locks to French eyesight his one, not because it locks to French eyesight his one, not because it locks to French eyesight his one, not because it locks to French eyesight his one, not because it locks to French eyesight his one, and the purely the his one of the purely of the purel sigh for a Teoriese! Visions arise of saving in combustibles, completeness of untensits, practicability in shape, compactness of arrangement, wise dispensation of heat, which is first thrown out in front, then rises above, spreads out behind and under—besides which advantages all the tidy appliances are peculiarly well adapted to French comprehension. Women who usually shum all kitchen apparatus, like to turn round this kitchen range, examine the spit which roasts on the rotary system, list up the lids, peep into the hot water reservoir, slip their ingers through the coal bars, and ejaculate: Charmant, 'ravissant,' as if they enjoyed playing with the useful toy. When they hear that bread can be baked behind, meat roasted in the middle, vegetables cooked on the top, plates kept hot in another compartment, the kettle kept boiling while, the sancepans are stewing, and pies nicely browning, every one leeks very hungry, and there is a rush to the mearest boffet. The only fault to be found in Pratt & Wentworth's stove is that it can act be made to cook by magic, as it stands. It is never left without lingsring looks of regree, but its nature to the very heart is iron, and it returns none of the kind things meant for it. Here, again, use has not been considered without ornament, for the castings are very time.

It appears that some of the holders of those old internal improvement bonds, after waiting over twenty years for the State to redeem her plighted faith, and finding that there was no prospect she would do so, finally applied to the Auditor of State for relief under the compromise act of 1846. The Attorney Generai has given the opinion, in which the Governor concurs, both radicals, mind ye! that the owners of the old internal improvement bonds may surrender the same after the time limited in the act, so as to obtain all the benefits thereof, except a participancy in the ben efits to accrue to the creditors from a transfer of the canal, its lands and revenues, which

Mail Fave Arrangements for Belevice and Contingents to the 9th of January Democratic State Convening.

Arrangement have been made with all the railroads running into this city, to-wit: Columbus and Indiana Central, Beliefontaine, Madison, Jeffersoville, Paru, Lafsyette, Cincinnsti and Terre Haute, to carry delegates and contingents to the 8th of January Democratic State Convention, at half fare raise.

W. B. McKeen, E.c., president of the Terre Haute Road, will require of these applying for half fare tickets certificates of appointment from the chairman of the county central committee that they are delegates or contingent delegates in fact, and upon this certificate half fare tickets will be issued.

J. It will-be well for the delegates and contingent delegates in fact, and upon this certificate half fare tickets will be issued.

J. It will-be well for the delegates and contingent delegates in fact, and upon this certificate half fare tickets, who intend to take advantage of the arrangement for half fare rates, to supply themselves with certificates from the chairman of the county central committee that they are such in fact. Such evidence may save the iscontingent to the fact of the counties in the state, who intend to take advantage of the arrangement for half fare rates, to supply themselves with certificates from the chairman of the county central committee that they are delegated and continue in the state, who intend to take advantage of the arrangement for half fare tickets, and exempt the reads from imposition.

The Columbus and Indiana Central Road with issue tickets that will be good from the will be good for another day. W. H. TALBOTT, Chairman Democrate State Central Committee.

The New England Society celebrated the an-stversary of the landing of the pilgrums, in the customary manner, at Delmonico's, yes-terday. Speeches were made by Henry Ward Beecher, Generals Sherman and Sickles, and others.

The report of the Excise Board, which gives the statistics of the board since its organization, in April, 1965, is published. During that period 12,668 houses have been granted, the gross amount received in payment therefor being 22,553,858. Of these licenses 199 were

The Times special says of the claims of the American creditors upon the Russian Government that the common rifles and powders were purchased by a Russian ordnance efficer and put on ship board. When the Crimean war was brought to a close, the property was then declined and ultimately refused by the Russian Government on the ground that a written contract was not entered into. The evidence thus far elicited by the ordinance investigating committee includes many startling facts regarding frauds in the contract to supply the government with arms and ammu-vestgating committee includes many starting facts regarding frauds in the contracts to supply the government with arms and ammunities. The report of the committee will not be leady for several months.

The Tribune's special says several members of the Ways and Means and Finance committees have been in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury recently in regard to sinance matters.

Senators Morgan and Sherman have had long interviews with the Secretary of the Treasury, with a view of eliciting has views on the Sherman measure. The Secretary has not indicated his views fully on the subject, but he is known to favor that portion of the scheme relative to foreign loans. In regard to the four milition proposition he has very grave doubts and not at all convinced of its advisability. He believes that a loan of that character would interfere with the banks and cause starge withdrawal of their deposits.

It is inferred that a majority of the House is in fevor of a taring the bonds, and it may be confidently stated that a bill looking to that object will be introduced after the holidays. The proposition meets with general approbation, and there is no doubt of the passage of such a measure.

Hon. Thomes B.Mc Carty, Auditor of State:

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th ultimo, in which you submit the following question and ask an official opinion:

"Can the owner of one of our old internal improvement bond take a new bond or certificate fore one-half of the debt, under our. State debt arrangement of 1846-7, without complying with the law as to the other half, by taking camal sertificates and making the necessary advancement to the completion of that work."

The law of 1846 stood in the nature of a proposition to our creditors, and when ac-camal certificates and making the necessary advancement to the completion of that work."

The law of 1846 stood in the nature of a proposition to our creditors, and when accepted by them assumed the character of a contract. Nether of the camtracting parties had a right to waive any of the stipufations of the contract without the consent of the other. The strict rule excluded a large number of our creditors who were unable to make the advancements necessary to the completion of the canal; and as the law then stood there was no provision whatever for the payment of their debts. At the following session, 1847, the law was amended so as to remedy this hardship, the eighth section containing the following language:

"Provided, that nothing herein contained shall prevent, or be deemed or taken to prevent any bondholder from availing himself after the said lat day of November, 1844, of the benefit of said act, as modified by this, so far as relates to the surrender or exchange of his bonds or certificates, as therein mentioned. But without any right of subscription, or any right to the privileges gives by the said act, or this act, to subscribers.

Under this provision all of our creditors who hold obligations of the character referred to may avail themselves of the remedies provided by the law, but they acquired none of the rights, privileges or priorities as to the molety placed in the canal; that was given to these who compiled with the law prior to the lat day of November, 1847.

I am, therefore, of the opinion that our creditors who have omitted heretofore to comply with the law, and the other half by the canal; though as to the latter half, subject to all the contingencies and priorities provided by the two acts of the Legislature above referred to. For the first half the faith of the State is pledged. For the second the bondholders must look to the canal.

DEAR SIR: I here examined the opinion of the Attorney General with reference to the two sections of the Butier 5011 of 1847, and concur with him in the opinion that the creditors of the State, helding internal improvement bonds, may surrender the same after the time limited in the act so as to obtain all the benefits to accrue to the creditors from a transfer of the canal its lands and evenues.

I am glad that the investigation has resulted in conforming the propriety of the practice of Attorney General.
